Topic – IBM i Access Client Solutions

Like everything else, nothing lasts forever and another one bites the dust... If you use IBM i Access for Windows (Client Access) please pay attention as this will probably affect you and your IBM i users.

IBM does not plan to support IBM i Access for Windows beyond Windows 8.1 and has not refreshed it beyond IBM i OS V7R1. Its replacement is called IBM i Access Client Solutions which provides a Java based, platform-independent interface.

As with most things that change, this may be confusing, but don't worry, the new IBM i Access Client Solutions still has the features in the "old model" and adds the flexibility of running on most operating systems that support Java, including Linux, Mac, and Windows™.

Sign up for the August 17 MRMUG meeting where Mark Flora will be showing you the differences and similarities of IBM i Access Client Solutions with a live demo and some discussion on this topic.

Please register for the meeting by noon August 16 at mrmug.org
